

James Leiber, D.O.

Bradenton East Integrative Medicine

While serving 11 years as an Air Force officer and physician, Dr. James Leiber cared for the President and Vice President at the White House, treating men whose good health was vital to the nation. Today, Dr. Leiber uses highly advanced, nonsurgical and non-pharmaceutical therapies to help area residents heal painful joints and avoid invasive replacement surgeries. In addition to using osteopathic manual medicine and therapeutic exercise to help patients, he is the only physician in the area to offer Regenexx™ injections of bone marrow-derived stem cell and platelet rich plasma procedures precision-guided by advanced ultrasound imaging. These regenerative procedures, which use the patient's own stem cells and platelets, were developed by the professionals who pioneered the process in 2005. They are backed by a large cell biology laboratory and grounded in research through three clinical trials and data gathered through a national registry.

Regenexx injections have helped elite athletes and weekend warriors get back in the game as well as those facing joint replacements. Research results for patients with knee arthritis show 90 to 95 percent feel an average of 60 percent improvement up to three years later even with advanced arthritis, and after two injections, they report an additional 50 percent improvement. To support patients' healing, Bradenton East Integrative Medicine also provides services like primary care, physical therapy, acupuncture, massage, weight loss and nutritional counseling.

Dr. Leiber believes that a collaborative relationship with his patients and a compassionate understanding of their unique situations are what lead to treatments that produce the most effective results. In addition to being triple board certified in neuromusculoskeletal, family and pain medicine, he also is registered in musculoskeletal sonography. Dr. Leiber has been trained in Nutritional & Functional Medicine, and he is an Associate Professor at the Lake Erie College of Osteopathic Medicine where he previously taught full time for five years.

8614 East State Road 70 Suite 200
Bradenton, FL 34202
941-727-1243
beimonline.com